

drug treatment school, detention facility, in which they were removed from their community, they probably would be on the streets now, maybe committing a more serious crime or a victim themselves of a serious crime.

So I think there is a false contrast between what is prevention and what is not. I would say that a child who is already running into trouble with the law—as these children are—has to be confronted. There has to be an effective intervention in a life going wrong. And these kinds of facilities are going on around the country.

I visited one in Illinois. Judge Grossman gave us a tour. The county and the State, and some Federal moneys, have helped create a panoply of options when a young person comes before him for sentencing. He has a number of options. Instead of the juvenile going to where there are a few bed spaces in the State pen or released with nothing, the judge has a series of things right there in the community he can do. The accountability block grant, with graduated sanctions, provides that opportunity.

So I would hope the Senator, as he studies this, would realize that the prevention money that we put in would not go to support that, but the block grant accountability money would support the judiciary as it seeks to intervene. Sometimes you have to be tough—some of these kids have really been on a bad road a long time—to intervene effectively.

Thank you for taking the time to personally visit and study one of those centers.
